DAVO IS GOING TO THE USA

HERE'S THE LATEST NEWS FROM DAVO . . .

April 14, 2008

Congratulations! Your application was drawn for entry in the 2009 Iron Butt Rally - The World's Toughest Motorcycle Competition!

If you are new to the Iron Butt, you can expect to ride through blistering desert heat, numbing cold, pounding rain, painful hail and blinding snow on some of the worst roads North America can offer. Ask any rally veteran and they can give you some idea of what is to come. If you really want to stir them up a bit, ask them about the Charcoal Kilns in Death Valley in August. On the other hand, the pain you inflict on yourself will soon be forgotten - at least this is the only logical explanation I can offer as to why an average of 70% of veteran riders choose to return for a second year of abuse!

The 2009 Iron Butt Rally will take off on Monday, August 24, 2009 from the southeastern US. As in 2005 and 2007, there will be a minimum points requirement in order to be considered a finisher. We will finish near the West Coast on Friday, September 4, 2009.
